Evaluation of Mine Action Programmes

P07-GL01 External independent evaluation organizations and experts UN Department for Peacekeeping Operations (DPKO), UN Mine Action Coordination Centres (UNMACC), UN Office for Project Services (UNOPS), donors No

The project will evaluate the effectiveness of landmine and unexploded ordnance emergency threat assessment, and the process for planning and integration with UN peacekeeping operations. It will assess programmes in terms of management, resource mobilization, reporting, communications and planning, and review the responsibilities of programme managers. It will evaluate the relationship and effectiveness of programmes within the context of the larger UN peacekeeping operation, if applicable. Finally, it will consider the performance and effectiveness of UNOPS as an executing agency.

- * Assess existing programmes, including achievements and overall impact.
- * Determine how donors evaluate programmes and if this is an efficient use of their resources.
- * Review the performance of UNMAS in supporting projects in terms of resource mobilization and advocacy, administration and finance, and project implementation.
- * Assess whether programmes have given sufficient attention to capacity development for national counterparts and reviews of the approaches used.
- * List topics for any evaluations to be conducted for the next year.
- * Identify resources required for internal evaluation.
- * Assess training needs to enhance internal evaluation systems.

- * The project will produce lessons learned and recommendations for use by the UN system, UN mine action programmes and donors.
